__ Professional summary

A skilled, thorough, fastidious developer and technology worker, backed by ample experience collaborating with developers, designers, and sales professionals to improve web functionality and UX on the front and back end.

In terms of work experience, the picture is fairly broad, including WordPress/PHP development (in my development career), data annotation, data entry, community moderation, and general IT/receptionist duties.

More recently, I have gained experience in copywriting, copyediting, proofreading, and writing documentation—for both promotional and internal use.

__ Development experience

- Developing and enhancing front-end components in HTML, CSS, Sass, JavaScript, jQuery, and React
- Object-oriented programming in PHP and some experience working with software design patterns
- Working with various themes, page builders (e.g. Elementor), and numerous plugins generally
- Working with APIs (e.g. Web APIs, Spreaker API), JSON, and CSV data in various contexts
- Web content management, content writing, copywriting, copyediting, and writing internal documentation
- Regular use of relational databases (MySQL) and university experience in the study of database theory
- Site maintenance/administration, including experience with Linux servers, DNS, and DMARC monitoring
- Building stylish, responsive front-end layouts and components from mock-ups designed in Adobe XD
- Developing solutions for numerous WordPress sites of varying size and complexity
- Using and writing shortcodes (e.g. Shortcode API) as well as custom post types + fields
- Version control w/ git in the command line + merge editor (in Visual Studio Code) + GitHub/GitLab
- Collaborating in agile environments (e.g. SCRUM) + experience in an environment using CI/CD pipelines in GitLab
- Working with cPanel, Cloudflare, Google Cloud Platform, and more limited experience with AWS
- Utilising transactional and marketing email platforms for deliverability, marketing, and analytics
